Covers the archaeological content of approximately 120 popular films, most of which have been produced in the United States since 1912. A unique feature is the inclusion of archaeologically significant dialogue from films that reveal how the industry portrays archaeology. Key words at the top of each page in the filmography allow readers to locate a particular film by title. Extensive commentaries appear for the newer pictures while briefer remarks are found for older films.

A Treasure Chest of Memories

This story involves a 12 year old boy who lives in Possidonia, a rural seaside village near Athens in the late 1920s. The boy lives with his grandfather and loves to swim in the sea with dolphins. One day while diving he finds an old box which happens to contain a map. This sets him on a journey, once he's a bit older, to search for an island. There he hopes to find his treasure. His journey becomes quite perilous, taking him to places and seeing sights that he could never have foreseen. Because of this he needs to develop his powers and seek help from others. At times he is unsure if he will ever complete his quest and wonders if it's all worth the effort. However, what waits for him down his chosen path proves to be both wondrous and amazing. Join Dimitri as he seeks his treasure and is forced to mature along the way. The story contains many twists and turns that match his difficult journey. The pace of this novel is heightened by the sense of adventure as you marvel at Dimitri's strength and courage in the face of adversity.
