Telecommunications Billing Systems

At the turn of the century, women represented over half of the American foreign mission force and had settled in heathen China to preach the lessons of Christian domesticity. In this engrossing narrative, Jane Hunter uses diaries, reminiscences, and letters to recreate the backgrounds of the missionaries and the problems and satisfactions they found in China. Her book offers insights not only into the experiences of these women but also into the ways they mirrored the female culture of Victorian America. A subtle and finely written book on] an aspect of the mission world in China that has never before received such probing, affectionate, detailed treatment.-Jonathan Spence, New York Review of Books An important and often entertaining work New angles on imperialism and gentility alike.-Martin E. Marty, Reviews in American History A triumph of sophisticated subtle intelligence. Though quite cognizant of the dark side of the confluence of American nationalism and the missionary enterprise, Hunter's interest is in moving beyond that understanding to explore how the meeting of two cultures affected, and was shaped by, a female angle of vision.-Regina Morantz-Sanchez, Signs Jane Hunter writes better than most novelists, and she has a topic more demanding and rewarding than the subjects many novelists deal with. Her story of the valiant and oftentimes guilt-ridden women who ventured to China, singly or with spouses, to win the country for Christ creates a world and beckons readers into it.-Christian Century

This book offers a new, research-based approach to STEM education in early, elementary, and middle years of schooling, concentrating on building teacher agency and integrated approaches to teaching and learning in High Possibility STEM Classrooms. Author Jane Hunter presents a globally oriented, contemporary framework for powerful Integrated STEM, based on mixed-methods research data from three studies conducted in 14 schools in language-diverse, disadvantaged, and urbanized communities in Australia. Elizabeth Bennet has spent her entire life in Derbyshire, but with her family in service to the Darcy family, she has found that she wants more from life. Her sisters seem content to be maids and keepers of keys, but Elizabeth knows that she needs more... With the help of Fitzwilliam Darcy, only son of the master of Pemberley, Elizabeth is able to realize something close to a dream of independence. When she returns to Pemberley, not as a maid, but as a governess to Mr. Darcy's young son, it is with her head held high, and a sense of purpose. Newly widowed, Mr. Darcy is beset by guilt and grief, and all Elizabeth can do is hope that time will heal her childhood friend's broken heart. But as the years pass, Elizabeth begins to feel that there is more to her affection for the stoic gentleman... and Mr. Darcy has begun to believe the same. But can Elizabeth put aside her pride, and the prejudice of the society that Mr. Darcy belongs to, and take some happiness for herself? Darcy's Unrequited Adoration is a steamy and sensual 'what if' Pride and Prejudice sensual intimate novella that is best enjoyed by those over 18 years of age.

Technology Integration and High Possibility Classrooms provides a fresh vision for education in schools based on new research from in-depth studies of technology integration in exemplary teachers' classrooms. This timely book meets the demand for more examples of effective technology integration by providing a new conceptual understanding that builds on the popular and highly influential theoretical framework of technological, pedagogical and content knowledge (TPACK). Technology Integration and High Possibility Classrooms details four rich case studies set in different contexts with students ranging from age 6 to 16. Each case study articulates in very practical terms what characterizes exemplary teachers' knowledge of technology integration and how that is applied in classrooms. This highly accessible book clearly demonstrates how theory informs practice and provides new possibilities for learning in twenty-first-century schools.

The Hight & Hunter Heritage

This explosive book lays bare the personalities and institutional relations behind the headlines. It goes beyond the recent events to discern the roots of contemporary U.S. covert activity within the past two decades. The Iran-Contra Connection delves in to the details of CIA and extra-CIA operations, including drug-trafficking, gun-running, government-toppling, and assassination. The Iran-Contra scandal is not merely a plan gone awry, the authors argue, but a consistent outgrowth of a long tradition of U.S. covert activity- from the Bay of Pigs invasion teams to the NSC organizational team; from the CIA and the World Anti-Communist League to the Israeli connection and the State Department.
