John Muir's Stickeen is one of the environmentalists best known works. In Stickeen , Muir tells the story of the bond between a man and his dog as they explore the Alaskan wilderness. Though the plot of the story is relatively simple, it took Muir many years to write because he wanted to portray Stickeen as tellingly as possible, giving his companion the respect he felt the dog earned during the journey. At the beginning of the story, the narrators dog, Stickeen, is cold and detached, showing no signs of affection for his master. The dangerous and arduous journey, however, creates an indelible bond between man and dog. Muir eventually describes the relationship between the man and his dog as brother-like. Today, Stickeen has earned a reputation as a classic dog story, and the story itself has been reproduced in many formats from picture books to movies and more. Stickeen is an unforgettable journey for anyone interested in master-dog stories or adventure stories.

Trophic Cascade

Winner of the Colorado Book Award in Poetry (2018) In this fourth book in a series of award-winning survival narratives, Dungy writes positioned at a fulcrum, bringing a new life into the world even as her elders are passing on. In a time of massive environmental degradation, violence and abuse of power, a world in which we all must survive, these poems resonate within and beyond the scope of the human realms, delicately balancing between conflicting loci of attention. Dwelling between vibrancy and its opposite, Dungy writes in a single poem about a mother, a daughter, Smokin' Joe Frazier, brittle stars, giant boulders, and a dead blue whale. These poems are written in the face of despair to hold an impossible love and a commitment to hope. A readers companion will be available at wesleyan.edu/wespress/readerscompanions.
